2016: MILLELIRI, A., Building an online course for CFM & FMI Msc : VBA Programming. This course was designed to mutualize the VBA programming course in the CFM and FMI Msc (more than 350 students involved). This is a blended course including 15 hours of video and nine hours of face to face applications. The 15 online hours include lecture, demonstrations and exercises solutions.

The face to face part was intended to be a kind of "master class" where the students can discuss in small groups with the teacher and where some domain specific application were presented. I did the Face to Face part for the FMI students in Paris and two other persons did it for the CFM in Sophia and Paris.

For the FMI students the satisfaction rate was very high and the student's return really good (see Amaury Goguel).

The course will be repeated for the FMI students during the coming academic year (Fall 2017). It's not going to be repeated for the CFM students due to a change in the "Maquette" of the program. I will improve the exercise part of the online section and add some algorithmic consideration to help the student analyze and build VBA applications).

Technically speaking, the course was implemented on knowledge and the vidéo were done using Office Mix (for the lecture part) and Camtasia (for some of the demonstrations and exercises, to get more options). [Teaching and Learning Scholarship]
